

Short biography : Linda Tomasini is a remote sensing space systems expert at CNES and doctor in Artificial Intelligence. During 10 years, she was in charge of conducting advanced studies for different atmospheric remote sensing missions such as Microcarb and Merlin. She is now in charge of developing and implementing training and capacity building on space applications and Earth Observation at CNES